The above noted guidelines are based upon the best information available at this time. We will inform you of any significant changes as they arise.

It is always prudent to budget conservatively. Avoid assuming unproven increases in offertory revenues, tuition or fundraising revenues in order to balance the budget. It is better to be surprised by a better than projected financial outcome, rather than be forced to react to an unplanned shortfall.

The Parish Finance Council should play a key role in the development of the parish budget, including a thorough review of the parish school budget, if applicable. The Council should plan to meet more often during this first half of 2022, even monthly. An initial meeting should be held to review year-to-date results versus the current year's budget; to hear from the Pastor or Parochial Administrator regarding pastoral considerations for the coming fiscal year; and to discuss the general approach and assumptions to be used in preparing the initial draft of the 2022/2023 fiscal year budgets for both the parish and parish school.

Subsequent meetings should include a review of the successive draft budgets. It should be expected that the Council will need to review two-to-three budget drafts before a final budget is recommended for the Pastor or Parochial Administrator's approval. A final recommended budget for parishes should be presented to the Pastor or Parochial Administrator by the end of May 2022. A final recommended budget for the parish school, if applicable, should be presented to the Pastor or Parochial Administrator via the Parish Finance Council, no later than May 2022 or earlier if required.

Thank you for your continued stewardship of parish resources. If you have any questions regarding these assumptions, please call me at 916-733-0288.

With kind regards, I am

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Thomas J. McNamara
Chief Financial Officer
